Metrolink News and Events

Lights, Camera, Action

As the sun just peaked over the mountains on a brisk spring morning, Metrolink riders in Montclair had a surprise visitor waiting with them for the train in to Los Angeles.

Huell Howser, star of California's Gold and Visiting ... with Huell Howser, was in Montclair to film a new Metrolink video that will be coming soon to your living room thanks to the magic of Video on Demand. The 12-minute video will debut August 13 to over one million Time Warner Cable subscribers in Southern California.

Mr. Howser and his camera crew caught many on San Bernardino Line train 313 by surprise. In that famously outgoing "let's make friends" style, riders were asked to describe the Metrolink experience and tell Howser why they chose to get out of their cars and ride the rails. As you might expect, Metrolink riders were pretty emphatic with their ideas about not sitting in traffic.

The cameras followed the train to Union Station, where they met up with a group of children on a field trip to Olvera Street, some Sheriff's deputies and their K-9 companions keeping Union Station safe, and a few other surprises.

So save the date—August 13. You just may be one of the stars in the making. Is that you giving an on-camera interview with Huell Howser, or maybe it's another Metrolink rider that you recognize? You'll just have to watch and see!

Time Warner Cable subscribers can access the Metrolink Video on Demand segments any time, 24/7, by going to Channel 1. Select "Marketplace," then "Expo TV—Access So Cal." Metrolink would like to thank our riders on the San Bernardino, Orange County, and Inland Empire—Orange County lines for their enthusiastic participation in this production.

Some Times, They Are A-Changin'

Metrolink passengers take note: changes will be made to the schedules of many Metrolink trains beginning Tuesday, September 4. This will include trains on the Orange County, Inland Empire—Orange County, 91, Ventura County, and Antelope Valley lines. Weekday schedules on the Riverside and San Bernardino lines will not be affected by this schedule change.

Weekend schedules will also change to provide expanded service. The Antelope Valley Line will increase service to six round trips on Saturdays, and start new Sunday service with three round trips from Lancaster to Los Angeles on September 9. San Bernardino Line weekend service adds an additional Sunday-morning round trip to the existing train service. Orange County Line weekend service also adds an additional round trip on both Saturday and Sunday.

We urge all of our passengers to view the new schedules at www.metrolinktrains.com, or call (800) 371-LINK (5465) to find out whether your train's schedule has been changed.

Train schedules are changed for a number of reasons, from the addition of stations or service to a change in track conditions.

In Metrolink's case, since our rails are shared with other railroads, our schedules are also influenced heavily by changes in Amtrak, Union Pacific, and Burlington Northern Santa Fe schedules. The reverse is often true, resulting in a kind of schedule ballet that our Operating Department staff must dance for months before a workable timetable emerges.

We at Metrolink hope that this schedule change will be easy and painless for our riders.

Christmas in June? Real Bearded Santas...on the Rails

Weekend Orange County Line passengers may have noticed an unusual preponderance of white-bearded men on the train one Sunday in June. The men were members of the Orange County chapter of the Amalgamated Order of Real Bearded Santas (AORBS), an international organization that brings together white-bearded gentlemen who proudly carry on the history and traditions of Santa Claus. The group rode Metrolink home from a lunch in San Juan Capistrano, member Reese Williams aka Kris Kringle III told Metrolink Matters. They thought a train ride would add something special to their get-together, and they weren't disappointed. "It was a very comfortable, very memorable trip," Reese said. "It was a great ride up and back."

Metrolink is especially proud to have been represented at this gathering by Art Brown, who is a board member of both Metrolink and the Orange County Transportation Authority (OCTA).

Safety Matters

You can find “guerilla” videos on Internet video sites portraying young people performing various “extreme” stunts and vandalism, some involving railroad tracks and trains. You may have seen a recent video of a tagger vandalizing a Metrolink coach car. The person shown defacing the coach was caught and prosecuted using the video his girlfriend posted on the Internet as evidence.

Another recent online video shows a teen lying in the middle of the tracks while a Metrolink train appears to roll over him without injury. What appears to be a very dangerous and risky stunt was actually a very carefully edited video. Two teens trespassed onto Metrolink right-of-way and separately recorded a) the train, and b) one boy lying in the track bed. The two videos were edited together to make it appear that the teen had “defied death.” Not only was playing around the tracks dangerous, the implicit dare was extremely irresponsible, urging others to repeat the act with disastrous consequences. There is very little space between the coach car and the track bed. Various tubes, hoses, and power cords hang between the cars and could cause serious injury or death. The two teens—and their parents—were contacted by the Los Angeles County Sheriff’s Department. Facing prosecution for trespassing based on the evidence they posted, they agreed to remove the comments indicating the video was “real” and will work with the Metrolink Safety Department to post a retraction to prevent anyone from attempting to duplicate their dangerous stunt.
