WORD FROM THE CEO

I have heard from numerous riders regarding problems they have experienced with our ticket vending machines, or TVMs. I want you to be aware that I am very mindful of the issues we are experiencing in that regard. I also want to let you know that we have both a short- and long-term plan in place to address the issues associated with our TVMs.

Beginning in October, we will implement a series of improvements to the TVMs, which will improve the reliability of the machines, as well as significantly reduce their ongoing maintenance and repairs. Put more simply, we expect that these improvements will dramatically improve your ticket buying experience at the stations. We are currently scheduled to complete these improvements by the end of this year.

We are also planning to begin a new ticketing program which will allow you to purchase tickets online or through your phone. We are actively exploring a mobile ticketing pilot program involving Weekend Day Pass purchases, which we hope to initiate by early 2015 (note, the initial program will not allow transfers to the Metro system). If all goes well, a system-wide mobile ticketing program will be in place by the middle of next year. We will still have some issues to address in terms of how our riders will be able to continue accessing the Metro rail and bus systems, but I am committed to making mobile ticketing a successful and permanent ticket purchasing option for the long-term. We will have much more detail to share about mobile ticketing in the coming issues of Metrolink Matters.

In the meantime, please consider the following suggestions to make your ticket purchasing experience more seamless:

- For monthly pass holders, please try to purchase your monthly passes near the beginning of the purchase period rather than at the last minute. You can purchase your monthly pass as early as the 25th of the previous month and up through the 14th of the month for which you are traveling. You can avoid long lines and other complications by buying your monthly pass early.
- Please arrive at the station at least 20 minutes prior to departure. We all know to arrive at an airport 60 to 90 minutes prior to departure, so giving yourself a little extra time at the station will significantly reduce ticket buying complications before your train leaves.
- Your monthly pass can be purchased at any of our 55 stations. Consider buying your next monthly pass at the end of your trip, when more time is available.
- Additionally, if you frequently buy the same ticket type using a debit or credit card, you can use Metrolink's Quick Ticket feature, which reduces the time and effort required to purchase a ticket. The Quick Ticket option is available for all ticket types.

I ask for your patience as we work through these various issues to address our ticket machines, but please be assured that we working on short- and long-term solutions to address all of these issues. Also, as a reminder, Metrolink monthly passes are only valid for the month issued. Conductors will continue to enforce valid fares at the beginning at each month. This includes the conductors with the Amtrak/Rail 2 Rail program. As always, thank you for continuing to travel on Metrolink.

MICHAEL P. DEPALLO | CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER | METROLINK

SEE TRACKS? THINK TRAIN!

For Metrolink, nothing is more important than safety. This fall, Metrolink, Orange County Transportation Authority, and Operation Lifesaver Inc. officials launched the agencies' combined safety campaign called, "See Tracks? Think Train!" at the Orange Station.

"If a car can't stop on a dime then a train definitely can't," Orange County Supervisor and Metrolink Board Member Todd Spitzer said at the event. "Every year, thousands of people's lives are destroyed by what has become a nonchalant attitude around train tracks. People carelessly walk or drive across tracks without fully comprehending the speed and power of an oncoming train. Tragically, these unfortunate individuals pay consequences that cannot be taken back. 'See tracks? Think train!' is a simple message, but one that will save lives," added Spitzer.

"Hopefully, if more people have the education and the understanding of the rules and laws, then maybe we can keep them off the tracks," said Kalina.

Mark Kalina, a "See Tracks? Think Train!" spokesperson and an Operation Lifesaver volunteer, shared his story about the night his life changed when he took a shortcut across train tracks. In the fall of 2012, the then-college senior tragically had both legs severed when he tripped and got caught underneath a moving train.

As he was walking home, Kalina cut through a field and was attempting to walk around a train stopped on the tracks. That's when a chain of unforeseeable, harrowing events began. After slipping on some gravel, Kalina snagged his shirt sleeve on a train car — right as the train started moving. He was soon being dragged along by the accelerating train. Using his free arm to grab a ladder on the train car that had him snagged, Kalina struggled to free himself. A sharp turn jarred him from the ladder and he landed on a car connector. Before Kalina could pull his legs up onto the connector, they were caught by the wheels and he was thrown under the train.

"I feel extremely lucky to be alive, because I should've died on those tracks. I didn't realize that walking near or across train tracks like that was even illegal. If more people understood the laws and rules, they may not be hurt or killed," said Kalina. "I thought I was being safe enough, and that a stopped train would never hurt me. It was so horrible to look down and see parts of my body that have been there all my life, and now they're just gone," Kalina recalled.

After nearly two years of grueling rehabilitation, Kalina is now able to walk with prosthetic legs and is helping to promote rail safety across the country. Kalina wants people to listen so no one else has to go through what he has, or worse.

Orange County Supervisor and Metrolink Board Member, Todd Spitzer; Operation Lifesaver Authorized Volunteer Mark Kalina; Operation Lifesaver California State Coordinator, Pete Aadland; and OCTA CEO Darrell Johnson joined together to remind us when we "See Tracks, Think Train!"

Metrolink works year-round to deliver a rail safety campaign to a wide variety of organizations and individuals. Along with our rail safety partners, we strive to raise public awareness to improve driver and pedestrian behavior around railroad tracks. NEW TRAIN TIMES FOR 91 LINE RIDERS IMPROVES COMMUTER OPTIONS

To meet the needs of regular 91 Line riders, commuter service is being optimized by offering more peak round-trip options. Beginning October 6, Metrolink will optimize the 91 Line train schedule by offering new trains during the morning and afternoon peak commute times, and eliminate two mid-day trains. The feedback from our rider surveys helped Metrolink make schedule changes that provide better service to Metrolink riders. The additional trains during peak commute times will be available prior to the 91 freeway construction ramp-up. The weekday changes complement the additional 91 Line weekend service that went into effect July 5, which offers four trains between Downtown Riverside and Los Angeles on both Saturdays and Sundays. More 91 Line commuter options are on the horizon with the extension of the 91 Line into Perris Valley with a 24-mile extension expected to open by late 2015. For a complete schedule, visit metrolinktrains.com/schedules.

HOLIDAY SERVICE ALERT

No service will be offered on the Ventura County, Riverside, 91, Orange County or Inland Empire-Orange County lines on Thanksgiving Day. Regular service at normal rates will resume the Friday after the holiday. Regular ticket rates apply during the remainder of the Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

HAVE A SAFE COMMUTE

At Metrolink, safety is foundational. We are continually looking for ways to ensure the safety of our passengers. However, every year about this time we start to see reports of passengers tripping while running for a train or missing a step while descending the stairs. Slips, trips and falls are avoidable, and it is up to all of us to make safe decisions and behaviors a priority.

- Use caution when using headsets or cell phones around train tracks or in stations
- Allow yourself plenty of time to meet your train
- Always walk on or toward the station platform
- Always allow passengers to exit the train before boarding
- Always use caution when stepping onto a train
- Always hold the handrail - use caution and avoid looking down at hand held devices when climbing or descending stairs
- Have a safe trip and, as always, if you need any assistance on board or at the station, please notify the conductor, a police officer, or a security guard
